Campbell Of Kansas, Points To The Control Of Rates By The Monopoly.

WOULD REGULATE PRIVATE CARS

Standard Oil Company And The Beef Packers Practically Dictate Terms Under Which They Run.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, Feb. 1.—The high-handed methods of the Standard Oil company and the beef trust were scored by Representative Campbell of Kansas in a speech in the house Wednesday during the discussion of the railroad rate measure. With the avowed intention of reaching the Standard Oil company, Mr. Campbell offered an amendment, which he will press later, emphasizing the placing of all private car and transportation facilities under the regulation of the interstate commerce commission. He quoted from the testimony of railroad officials showing that the beef packers practically make their own rates; that the Standard Oil company had dictated in the same manner and that poultry, fruit and dairy produce were subject to the same control.

Reverting to the Standard Oil company, Mr. Campbell said: "But yesterday they issued a decree to the attorney general and the governor of Missouri that further prosecution of a suit now pending in the court against them must be stopped or they will destroy the value of billions and billions of property within the state of Kansas and Indian Territory."

Scores Threat by Trust. "Ye gods! The power of monopoly stopping the prosecution of suits pending in the courts by threatening the innocent producer!"

Mr. Campbell then read a resolution presented to the New Jersey legislature Tuesday directed against the Standard Oil company and remarked: "It must have been said this morning down in Florida under the palms, as he was taking his walk and reading the morning papers, when pointing to old New Jersey, Mr. Rockefeller said:

"Et tu Brute!" And to-morrow, as Antony Rogers leans over the prostrate form and picks out the particular slash that was made in him, he will say: 'And this was the most unkind-cut out of all.'"

"And the beef packers to-day in Chicago are claiming immunity from prosecution for crimes committed because they admitted their crimes with what they considered to be an implied understanding that they would not be prosecuted."

Cure for Intolerable Condition.

An exhaustive discussion of the development of trusts and monopolies and their effect on business was given by Mr. Martin (S. D.), who has a bill pending to control such organizations. Rising prices for commodities and freights and discouragement of individual endeavor were the result of the stifling of competition, he said. Mr. Martin's bill provides federal control over corporations through publicity features and stock-watering restrictions.

Mr. Bartlett (Ga.), a minority member of the committee reporting the rate bill, made a two hours' speech, in which he discussed the legal and constitutional questions involved and advocated the passage of the bill as a proper remedy for an intolerable condition.

The railroads, he said, had appealed to the constitution to escape regulation by the states, and were now appealing to the same document to escape federal control. Reminding his hearers that a representative of a corporation had snapped his fingers at the courts in New York recently, Mr. Bartlett asserted that this general disregard of the laws must be stopped.

San Francisco, Cal., Feb. 1.—Flames broke out late last night in the hold of the transport "Meade," lying at the Polson street wharf. The fire raged for hours despite the efforts of the fire department. Fully twenty men were overcome by the deadly fumes, and at least three are dead. Four are missing and nine others are known to be injured. The dead are Third Officer Geo. Wallace of the "Meade," and B. Hennessey and Captain Charles Dakin, city firemen. The missing are Charles Gill, Geo. Brown, W. Reagan, all city firemen, and an unknown sailor of the "Meade." At 3 o'clock this morning the fire was well under control and the ship was flooded with water.

The fire was practically extinguished at four this morning. It is not thought that the damage to the vessel is vital.

SECRET REPORT IS NOT PUBLIC

Ryan's Promise Of Full Publicity In Equitable Life Matters Is Not Kept.

THE DIRECTORS SIGN THE PLEDGE

Receipt Of Copy Of Accountants Statement Of Investigation Carries Promise Not To Make Public.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

New York, Feb. 1.—The boasted policy of Thomas F. Ryan, announced when he obtained control of the Equitable Life Assurance society, of full publicity for the society's affairs, was not in evidence at Wednesday's meeting of the board of directors.

President Paul Morton submitted to the directors the report of the chartered accountants on their investigation of the society. This report contained, it is said, evidence of a great many scandals which were not revealed by the Frick committee, the Hendricks investigation, nor by the Armstrong investigating committee.

Report Is Kept Secret.

It was deemed advisable by the Ryan administration to keep the facts contained in the report absolutely secret. To seal the lips of every one of the directors present the extraordinary measure was taken of obtaining from each a written pledge by which he bound himself not to divulge anything about the revelations made by the accountants.

Thirty-four of the fifty directors of the society attended the meeting and were compelled to submit to the humiliation of signing the agreement.

Many of the directors said later that a verbal pledge should have been sufficient to satisfy President Morton and Mr. Ryan. The pledge was obtained in a peculiar way. Each director present was given a copy of the report made by the accountants and was asked to sign a receipt for it. The receipt included the pledge which bound the person who signed it not to divulge anything contained in it to outsiders.

Lawyers Ask for Fees.

During the meeting a number of bills from lawyers for services rendered during the Alexander-Hyde fight for control of the society were presented. The directors were requested to authorize payment. Some of the fees charged by the lawyers were regarded as excessive by a number of the directors, who protested against payment being made. They also protested on the ground that the services of some of the lawyers were on behalf of Mr. Alexander and Mr. Hyde as individuals and not on behalf of the society. They did not see why the policy holders of the Equitable should be called on to pay the personal counsel fees of two men.

Embarrasses Morton.

These protests created an embarrassing situation for President Morton. The society had established a precedent by paying $25,000 last summer to Elihu Root, one of the many lawyers retained by Mr. Hyde to fight the Alexander forces. Mr. Root for many years has been personal counsel for Thomas F. Ryan, and the propriety of the payment made to him was involved when the question was raised about the payment to other lawyers. As a result of the protest a special committee of three directors was appointed with full power to dispose of the lawyers' bills, as they deem best. It is expected that the Equitable will eventually pay them.

Gallant Old Warhorse Attains Retirement Age..General Bates Is His Successor.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 1.—The official life of a gallant old warrior expired today, when, by reason of the fact that this is the sixty-fourth anniversary of his birth, Lieutenant-General Adna R. Chaffee, late chief of staff of the army, was retired from active service. The usual leave-taking was not in order, for the reason that Gen. Chaffee two weeks ago relinquished rank within the gift of the United States army.

Rose From the Ranks. General Chaffee was born in Ohio in 1842, and entered the service as a private soldier in the Sixth Cavalry in July, 1861. In March, 1863, he was commissioned second lieutenant, becoming a first lieutenant in February, 1865, and bore the rank of captain at the close of the war. He took part in all the campaigns of the Army of the Potomac, being severely wounded at Fairbairn and Brandy Station, and was brevetted for gallantry at the battles of Gettysburg and Dinwiddie Court House. Following the civil war he was engaged much of the time in campaigns against the hostile Indians on the frontier. He was with General McCook in the Department of

SOUNDED KNELL OF RUGBY GAME

PROF. ADAMS TOLD ALUMNI WHY
FOOTBALL SHOULD GO.

TYRANNY OF FALSE IDEAL

Which Exalts Athletic Aristocrats and Finds in Their Deeds Highest Aim of Student Life, Must End.

Madison, Wis., Feb. 1.—At the annual banquet of the University of Wisconsin Alumni association of Madison held last night, football and athletic reform generally, were the subjects of the after-dinner speeches. Professor Thomas S. Adams, faculty director of university athletics, in speaking on "The Athletic Aristocracy," reviewed the situation and pointed out what evils in intercollegiate athletics have led to the movement for reform. While to those outside college circles much of the present agitation might seem hasty and hysterical, he believed that to those more familiar with actual conditions, the agitation seemed entirely justifiable, and the inevitable outcome of conditions that have existed for several years. "The reform," he said, "may be one-tenth hysteria, but it is nine-tenths common sense. The real problem is that of athletic aristocracy versus athletic democracy."

Athletic Aristocracy.
While there are some 3,500 students in the university, continued Professor Adams, not more than twenty-five or thirty can reasonably be said to have received any desirable training in football—that training which comes from hearty participation in competitive games. All the howl and fuss, and all the reform, has been about a couple of dozen of young men on whom the admiration of the student body, the money of the athletic association, and the time of the faculty were lavishly expended as if they had been demigods, and not simply fine, manly, young Americans, whom—with the exception of a few professionals who have crept in among them—it is a pleasure to know. What I have to say arises from no resentment against the thirty aristocrats; my resentment comes from the fact that the whole student body are not also aristocrats.

Victory the Sole Aim.
"We have set up intercollegiate victory as the highest aim and ambition of student life," Professor Adams went on to point out. "At the root of the greatest evil of the situation is the inordinate, passionate, characteristically American, and hence characteristically exaggerated, desire to get to the top. The popular mind ranks a victory over Michigan as a greater achievement than a great scientific discovery. The average college student would infinitely rather be a sub-quarterback than make Phi Beta Kappa. We have set up, in the first place, a wrong ideal, and then we have pursued it in the strenuous way which characterizes us as a people."

Evils of Football Training.
In considering the evils of the system, Professor Adams said, "Twelve or fifteen men are picked to play the game by the coaches, who confine all their attention to the smallest possible number of players, and the rest of the students are drilled to support the team as rowers on the 'bleachers.' Desire to win leads the whole student body to sacrifice everything to victory. These few men are given secret practice behind the gates of the athletic field that are barred against the home audience and the spies of rival institutions. These few men are fed on specially prepared food, at a training table, around whose board they may be properly imprinted with football atmosphere. After strenuous and laborious practice during the day, these few men are called together at night to practice secret signals in the gymnasium. When the big game approaches they are protected against the slightest accident or most-trifling distraction. Two or three days before the game, they abandon their classes and start for their destination in a place car."

Affects Whole Student Body.
"Meanwhile the student body takes its breath, throws itself with a singleness of purpose worthy of a great cause, into the achievement of victory. Men tramp through the streets and rehearse their yells; they attend the game in rooting sections; to speak disparagingly of the team or even to suggest that some member of the team is not worthy to represent his college, is treason. In the fierce, collective campaign for athletic victory, the students not only sacrifice their money, in bets which too often go wrong; sacrifice their time and their studies; but at times the students are led to sacrifice their highest moral standards. There is no time when the battle is imminent to talk of the worthiness of the man who is fighting for you; no time to quibble at minor irregularities, when in a few minutes the enemy will be upon you."

Not True Sport.
"Now this complete subordination of the mass to the eleven, of the individual to the common good, of the right to the necessary, may be justifiable and admirable in war or business, but it is all out of place in sport. It is wretchedly poor sportsmanship. Unless the chief end of universities is to win football games, most of it is all wrong, hateful, and detestable; at worst of all, there is not one ounce of real, bonafide sport in the whole business."

Athletic Democracy.
"Like all aristocracies, the athletic aristocracy," continued Professor Adams, "sacrifices the good of the many to the good of the few. The only athletic ideal seems to me to be that of an athletic democracy. Instead of twenty-five men playing football, 1,000 men in the game, instead of one eleven laboring through exhausting practice behind barred gates on Camp Randall, hundreds of men actually participating in real games all over the university grounds. The question which I desire to ask the Madison alumni is whether they want a good football team, or plenty of good football; whether they want to send their sons and their friends' sons to an institution which puts the great mass of students into outdoor sports, or to an institution which puts the great mass of students upon the bleachers to howl. The selection of the ideal toward which, as a university, we shall strive is all important. If faculty, alumni and students co-operate in the introduction of a widespread, thorough-going system of outdoor sports, we shall have an athletic democracy which will win fewer intercollegiate games, but which will build up infinitely more fine physical manhood."

What the New Policy Means.
"If you want football and not a football team," said Professor Adams in closing, "you must understand the conditions necessary for this athletic democracy. In the first place, a new game of football must be devised which can safely be played by the general student body. In the second place, we must reverse the present policy of concentrating the athletic resources upon one team and one sport. Great crowds of students must go out of training for rooling, and go into training for class and college football. We must have clean athletics here whether other institutions are clean or not. We must go in for athletics first and victory second."

Alumni Sustains Faculty.
Madison, Wis., Feb. 1.—Madison alumni of the University of Wisconsin last night resolved at a banquet to sustain the faculty in its attack upon the present game of football. After a hot discussion the following resolutions were adopted:

"Resolved, That the Madison alumni approve such reforms in the game of football as will free it from professionalism, and pledge their support for sustaining the purity of athletics in Wisconsin; that in case such reforms can be effected, we are in favor of the continuance of intercollegiate football; that we have confidence that the faculty will deal with the subject in a spirit of sympathy with the legitimate interests of the student body in clean athletics, and in due recognition of the faculty's primary obligation to keep the university true to the purpose of the taxpayers of Wisconsin in establishing an institution for the promotion of education and good citizenship in the state."

Following Professor T. S. Adams, F. J. Turner, who is faculty supervisor of athletics and faculty conference representative, spoke against the game, and Attorney J. A. Aylward made the leading address in favor of retaining football. He proposed a reform conference of representatives of the faculty, student body and alumni from Madison, Milwaukee, Chicago and Minneapolis.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Evansville, Feb. 1.—The house on the farm belonging to Mrs. Margery Munger, about a mile and a half north-west of this city, burned to the ground Saturday evening. The origin of the fire was unknown as Mrs. Munger was away from home and did not learn of her loss until Sunday. All her furniture, clothing, etc., was destroyed.

Another Fire.
The fire alarm was turned in Tuesday afternoon but before the fire company had hardly left the city hall word was received that the blaze was extinguished. The roof of the old foundry building of the Baker Mfg. Co.'s shops had taken fire but it had been extinguished by the company's employees.

Girls Dance Alone.
About thirty young ladies gave a dancing party in the Odd Fellows' hall on Saturday evening. The young men were not admitted, a part of the young ladies taking the gentlemen's part in the dances. A jolly good time was enjoyed by those present.

Very Seriously Ill.
Little Lucy Langemak has been very ill the past week. Dr. Sutherland of Janesville was called in consultation with Dr. Ewing on Tuesday.

Wild Run; No Damage.
A team hitched to a wagon belonging to John Hulverson, who resides a few miles northeast of this city, created considerable excitement Monday afternoon. The animals were hitched near the Grange Store and became frightened at a piece of paper which blew in front of them. They broke loose and ran down Main street, crossing the railroad tracks just in front of a train. They ran a mile east of this city, turned a corner and ran into the barnyard of Arthur Fryar, where they were captured. No damage was done to either harness or wagon.

FRUITFUL LABORS OF FORMER DAYS

Anonymous Writer Offers Suggestions

Episode.

Ordinarily the Gazette pays no attention to unsigned communications. It is a hard and fast rule. But in the one which appears below there seem to be no statements which anyone can challenge unless, perchance, there be some errors in transcribing certain rather illegible portions of the writing—especially in the matter of proper names. (The failure to affix a signature was probably an oversight.)

Wednesday, Jan. 31, '06.
Editor Gazette: The article in last night's Gazette—"Burning Shame"—calls back the days when the N. M. C. Association was started, when the church parlors were pictured as resting places for strangers, and young men who were seeking rest and reading. Then came the city hospital when Mr. Pain came home from the south and gave a helping hand. Then Mrs. William Tallman, in memory of her mother, gave one and the citizens of Janesville were proud that there was a place for sick people and the homeless men and boys who, as strangers among us, could be cared for. The work for the public library was helped by the superintendent of the Blind Institute and out of the library workings Mr. Eldred's interests were aroused. And the children's room is now one of Janesville's sunniest and brightest rests for little folks. Burning shame will again kindle the desire for a clean home for those who are so ill-fated as to be stricken with measles while in Janesville. These hearts ache the keenest, the parents who know their boys are struggling among strangers—as the patients at Janesville's pest house. It is some mother's boy who asks at our door for old clothes—some mother's boy at the pest house.

—Month Like December.

December's ideal weather caused the eyes of the oldest inhabitant to distend with wonderment at the high temperatures at nearly all times and the prevalence of pleasant conditions during January have brought his optics to a position in which there is danger of losing them. The general average for January was less than three degrees below the corresponding figure for the previous year and there was more agreeable weather. During the thirty-one day period just passed there were fifteen days recorded fair, pleasant or beautiful, three as partly cloudy or cloudy to pleasant and twelve as inclement. The general average temperature was 30.5, just a slight bit below the freezing mark and but 2.4 degrees lower than the general average for December. The high average was 38.5 and the low 22.5—reductions from December's averages of 2.9 and 2.6 respectively. The mercury did not once fall below the zero mark and succeeded in attaining that place but once. This was on the eighth. To counteract this low mark the quicksilver climbed up to 60 on the twentieth. The following is the record of conditions and temperatures per diem.

Other Social Events in the Tobacco
City—Negro, Topic of Men's Club.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Edgerton, Jan. 31.—The mask ball on Monday evening had a very liberal patronage both in the number of people in costume and of spectators. The prizes for best lady and best gentleman were awarded to Mrs. Orra Giercke, who wore suits of armor. The honors of comic lady and gentleman were carried away by Mrs. Millie Hallett, who wore an Irish peasant costume, and Willie Davis, who also represented the Emerald Isle. Five young men from Evansville representing convicts took the purse for the best group.

Men's Club Meeting.
At 7:30 this evening at the home of John Mawhinney the men's club will hold the second of their social gatherings. The following program will be given: Song—"Love's Old Sweet Song"; L. A. Parr, Reading—"The Charge of the Mad Brigade"; E. M. Ladd; Song—"For All Eternity"; Mr. Roethe; Discussion of the Negro Problem; (1) Will the negro race be saved by Booker T. Washington's method of industrial education? B. C. Wilson; Song—"Banquo"; L. E. Getelle; (2) Will the negro be most benefited by complete separation from the white man? L. A. Parr; Song—"The Bandolero"; F. Lyons. The program will close with a social time and refreshments.

To Entertain Students.
Miss Wilma Hurd will entertain many of the high school students at her home on Thursday evening. Edgerton Personal News. Mrs. Royal Parr is on the sick list. Ernest Clemons of Janesville has been doing work in our city a few days this week. Miss Mae McMillan of Fort Atkinson was the guest of her sister, Mrs. C. P. Tonten a few days last week. Clenden Farman of Janesville was a local caller the first of the week. C. P. Tonten and wife were Janesville callers Sunday.

Nellie Bentley appeared before the Apollo club in Janesville on Monday. Mrs. Jennie Goff of Stoughton is a guest at the home of Tom Westlake. Mr. and Mrs. Henry Johnson were Janesville visitors on Sunday.

TOMORROW IS THE GROUND-HOG'S DAY OF SUN PROPHECY

Will Emerge from His Burrow at Dawn, and if the Sun Shines, It's Real Winter Henceforth.

Tomorrow, February 2, is "Ground-hog Day." This time it comes as a surprise, southern Wisconsin having had so little real winter that its people may well be excused for forgetting that it is already in order to discuss to the approach of spring and the probable duration of the remaining period of chilly weather—if there is to be any. Regardless of what the winter has been and hasn't, the ground-hog, who is supposed to have been cuddled up in his hole underground during all the beautiful warm days that have been the share of human dwellers hereabouts since last November, climbs up to the earth's surface for the first time tomorrow and takes a look at the sky.

In aristocratic parlance the name is "ground-hog," but the little animal is only the plain, well-mannered woodchuck, who does little harm to any one save the keeper of a garden filled with luscious fruits and vegetables, and even he has nothing to complain of at this time of the year. When the cold winds come down out of the north the little chap burrows into the ground a little deeper than he usually sleeps, and rolling himself up in a ball, snores away peacefully enough until the mysterious call to prophecy and the riddle of the future reaches his ears. Then, reluctantly, but compelled by that sense of inexorable duty which bothers so few men, he comes forth to see—dull, leaden, angry skies or the smiling sun which cast a baleful shadow in his wake (if nautical terms can be used in describing the habits of a woodchuck).

That is the crucial test of the nearness of spring. If he sees the shadow indicating that the sun is shining and the day is bright—there is little time lost in diving back into the burrow and settling into a comfortable snooze again, for the woodchuck knows (so the tale runs) much more about these matters of weather than the human being. He is well aware in that bright sunshine of a prophecy of six weeks more of bleak skies and colder blasts of snow and sleet, and so he takes no chances.

But if there is no shadow on the ground or snow? That is altogether a different matter. If the sky is cloudy, with promise of "fair weather," the ground hog is satisfied, and takes his ease throughout the day, retiring after perhaps several unwonted square meals and expecting to awake again in the morning and find the slides grown clear. For it is the fulfillment of the shadow that the winter will be long, and of the cloudy sky that the spring will be early.

AN IDEAL SYSTEM OF HEATING A BUILDING

New Cargill Memorial Church Warm and Ventilated With Fresh Air.

The new Cargill Memorial M. E. church has a novel and interesting installation for heating and ventilating. It consists of a steam boiler with a bank of steam pipes through which air is circulated by an eight-foot fan driven by a variable speed electric motor. When the fires are started the air in the building is circulated through the steam pipes and after the church is warm and the congregation arrives, cold air is then drawn in from outside by the fans and after being heated by the steam coils, is conveyed by the hot air ducts to the auditorium. In summer cool air can constantly be used to ventilate and keep the church cool. In extremely warm weather ice can be used in the fan room to cool the air and as it goes to the church.

JANESVILLE MEN ATTENDED WISCONSIN DAILY PRESS ASSOCIATION MEETING

Which Was Held in Milwaukee Last Night—David Atwood Re-elected Vice-President.

About fifty newspaper publishers from various parts of the state attended the annual meeting of the Wisconsin Daily Press association last night at the Milwaukee Press club. Mason and West Water streets, Milwaukee. Officers for the coming year were elected as follows:

President—M. A. Hoyt, Milwaukee Daily News.
Vice-president—David Atwood, Janesville Gazette.
Secretary—E. A. Tostevin, Racine Journal.
Treasurer—W. M. Root, Sheboygan Journal.

Executive committee—Mr. C. Douglas, Milwaukee Sentinel; R. E. Getelle, La Crosse Leader-Press; E. W. Le Roy, Marinette; P. B. Hagen, Fond du Lac Commonwealth; H. M. Atkinson, Eau Claire Leader.

The association was started at a meeting last winter. A constitution and by-laws were formally adopted last night. The object of the association is to promote the interests of publishers of daily papers in Wisconsin. After a dinner at the club at 8 o'clock various topics of interest to the profession were discussed. Janesville men who participated were: P. J. Monat, L. H. Bliss, and David Atwood.

DESTROY THE CAUSE.

You Cannot Cure Dandruff Without Destroying the Cause of It. Many people wash their scalps Saturday night or Sunday to try to keep the dandruff down for the week, but on Monday night the scalp has begun to itch, and Tuesday morning will find a good supply of dandruff under the hair is brushed. There is but one real scientific way of curing dandruff; and that is to kill the germ that causes it, and falling hair, and finally baldness. There is only one preparation that will destroy the germ, and that is Newbro's Herpicide. It is an entirely new discovery, and the only hair preparation that is based on the new scientific principle. In addition Herpicide is a very refreshing hair dressing for regular toilet use. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

"I have been a terrible sufferer of piles for fourteen (14) years and during all this time you can have an idea of how many kinds of medicine I tried. But I found no relief whatever. I felt there must be something that could cure me without having to undergo an operation which might kill me."

"Now, after trying but one treatment of your 'Pyramids,' I am free, free to tell all sufferers of this dreadful disease to try this medicine—the Pyramid Pile Cure. It will cure when all others fail. Sincerely yours, G. Braneigh, Schellburg, Pa."

Anyone suffering from the terrible torture, burning, and itching of piles, will get instant relief from the treatment we send out free, at our own expense, in plain, sealed package, to everyone sending name and address. Surgical operation for piles is a permanent success. Here you can get a treatment that is quick, easy to apply and inexpensive, and free from the publicity and humiliation you suffer by doctors' examination.

Pyramid Pile Cure is made in the form of "easy to use" suppositories. The coming of a cure is felt the moment you begin to use it, and your suffering ends.

Send your name and address at once to Pyramid Drug Co., 1247 Pyramid Building, Marshall, Mich., and get, by return mail, the treatment we will send you free, in plain, sealed wrapper.

== FORTY YEARS AGO ==

Janesville Daily Gazette Thursday, February 1, 1866.—Mr. W. H. Church has left a buffalo robe at this office which he says somebody put in his sleigh while he was at church last Sabbath evening at Hyatt House Hall. The owner can have it by paying for this notice.

Too Fast.—We were somewhat premature in announcing the acceptance of the resignation of the Rev. Mr. Mackie. A society meeting is to be held at 2 1/2 o'clock Monday afternoon to consider the matter.

The Lecture Last Evening.—As might have been expected, the rush to hear Gough last night evinced in a perfect form, some idea of which can be formed from the fact that it took three-quarters of an hour to reach the hall after commencing the ascent of the stairs. The participants bore the affliction of getting into the lecture room with the utmost good nature, despite the pushing and squeezing sustained, and made the situation an occasion for a good deal of pleasant rally. The seating went on rather slowly, but this is little to be wondered at, considering the numbers constantly pouring into the room, and in some instances those who had paid for reserved seats failed to obtain them. On the whole things went off quite as well as could have been expected considering the fact that there were some nine hundred people crowded into the hall. The lecture, on Temperance, was such a one as only Gough can deliver; moving his hearers one minute to tears and the next convincing them with laughter, and during the entire two hours of his address keeping them in the best of spirits (not ardent) to the last. The gross proceeds of the lecture were $520.10. It will not for the association probably $275.

Improvement of Wisconsin River.—The Stevens Point Pinery of the 25th says the Wisconsin River Improvement company is now a fixed fact. At a meeting held in that place on the 18th, an organization was effected under the old improvement charter. B. Single was elected president, G. L. Sparks secretary and M. Wallgren treasurer. Seven directors are chosen, consisting of B. Single, John Week, A. S. McMill, John A. Walker, John Bennie, John Rabin and O. Garrison. An amendment to the charter decided to increase the number of directors to nine and to increase the facilities of carrying out the object of the corporation. Over one hundred shares were taken in a few hours.

Labor Notes

The Victorian (Australia) government has instituted the fortnightly pay system in the public service.

Representative Hays of California has introduced in the house the bill prepared by the Japanese and Korean Exclusion League, providing for the extension of the Chinese exclusion laws to Japanese and Koreans, and persons of Japanese and Korean descent. This bill is similar to that already offered by Representative McKinlay in behalf of the entire California delegation.

Congressman Knowland has introduced a bill increasing the head tax on immigrants from $2, as it is at present, to $25.

The glass workers of Belgium have accepted the employers' terms and have signed new contracts to the end of April next.

The lockout in the engineering trades in Sweden, which began on June 10, and by which some 17,000 workmen were affected, has terminated. The settlement was brought about by a committee, including representatives of employers and workpeople, the formation of which was due to the initiative of the Ministers of Finance and of the Interior.

Nineteen crafts use the union label of the American Federation of Labor. There are fifty-five other union labels in use in this country.

The Executive Board of the United Mine Workers of America has decided to pay in a lump the assessment of the organization amounting to between $11,000 and $12,000 in support of the strike of the International Typographical Union.

ONCE WELL-TO-DO, NOW DRINK'S WRECK

RICHARD PARTRIDGE, WHOSE FALL FROM PROSPERITY TO RUIN THROUGH LIQUOR BROUGHT LOSS OF WIFE AND FRIENDS, IS KICKED OUT OF CITY INFIRMARY FOR GOING ON A "TEAR" PRISON ALTERNATIVE NOW.

Richard Partridge, 35 years ago, was a well-to-do business man, owner of a store. He was respected by his neighbors and was known as a good citizen. Then the "tear" took him. He is now in the city infirmary, kicked out for going on a "tear" and is now in prison as an alternative.

DRINK

BARS MEN FROM BUSINESS

We read of the business man who falls from prosperity to ruin, because his family and friends, and the only ambition left is to be admitted to the "poor house." "Drink is given as the cause of his condition."

Drink has conquered the strongest intellects, the bravest hearts and the noblest souls. Business competition has become so keen that only men of extraordinary capacity can expect to succeed. No will power on earth can beat the inflamed stomach membranes burned out by alcohol. The craving for drink is a disease brought on by continual indulgence in alcoholic stimulants and requires treatment.

Would you rather have a salesman who stood on street corners, or in vacant lots and harangued passers-by, than one who was cordially welcomed into the homes of the people at times when the desire to buy was not difficult to arouse? ## MANY A SLIP.

The Philippine tariff has not yet been repealed. It looks like a rough passage in the upper house. One insurgent there fighting for the interests of his state can defeat the bill and save the honor of his party.

POINTERS FOR HOME-TRADERS.

The farmer has no just cause for complaint on account of the prices he receives for his crops and his live stock, when he persists in sending his money to the big cities for goods, thus helping in the building up of the trusts and combinations, which are the causes of his grievances, when he might just as well buy what he needs in his home town, and perhaps save money by so doing. It is a poor merchant who cannot sell, quantity and quality and cash payment considered, as low as the catalogue house.

When a petition is presented to you to sign asking that your congressman support a parcels post measure that has for some time been before Congress, think well before you allow yourself to place your signature to it. At the present time the passage of a parcels post law as outlined by those promoting the measure, would open up the way for the further building up of trusts to control many lines of the mercantile business, and eventually the residents of rural districts would become dependents upon the large cities for all they wished to buy or sell. Manufacturing would become confined to sections of the country where the price of labor is the lowest, vast aggregations of capital would control both manufacturing and selling and the people would be taxed hundreds of millions of dollars yearly to make up the deficiencies in the postal department, and only a few, comparatively, would reap the benefit and this at the cost of an annihilation of the country towns and the agricultural sections of the country. The parcels post proposition is one of the biggest "gold bricks" ever placed before the American people. It is designed to further concentrate the wealth of the country in the large financial centers, and make the people at large contribute to the support and enrichment of those who would build up monopolies.

Some times it is the grocer-man who wears a scornful frown; because the glib-tongued box-car man is selling goods in town; and then again the hardware man is feeling rather sore, because his neighbor grocer won't buy at his store; and the keeper of the clothing house in silence mentally swears, for the reason that the hardware man sends away for duds he wears; and the man who runs the jewelry shop is feeling somewhat blue, for the clothing man has sent away for diamonds just a few; and the dry goods man is wrathful as for customers he strives, for the other merchants sent away for dresses for their wives. But the Lord be with the editor, most patient man in town; he quiets the troubled waters and never wears a frown, even though the grocer when he sends his little bill, has on it advertising for "Smith's Hopes Liver Pill," and the letter from the hardware man in which he makes complaint of people sending away for goods from pocket knives to paint, is written on a letterhead that cost him not a sou—he got 'em free with twenty gross of "Baxter's Patent Screw." So praise be to the editor who works from morn-till night, to elevate his fellow men and guide their steps aright. He booms the town in preachments strong, and never is afraid to advocate the gospel and the virtues of home trade. With cheer for all he lives along, and at last it may be said, "He worked for love of good alone," his reward comes when he's dead.

A USEFUL VERDICT.

In the east, in fact the whole country over, the recent trial of Mr. Hapgood charged with libelling the editor of Town Topics, has been watched with interest. Town Topics and its methods have been thoroughly discussed and well aired and ventilated. In speaking of the verdict in favor of Mr. Hapgood the New York Tribune says:

"The trial of Mr. Norman Hapgood for criminal libel which resulted Friday in a triumphal verdict of acquittal has thrown a light on several dark places, brought forward for reprobation, and it is to be hoped, for future punishment, some peculiarly hateful characters and exposed to ridicule the follies and follies as well as the fads and fancies of a considerable number of persons, who have hitherto filled a more dignified place in the community."

After the testimony produced in the last ten days it is unnecessary to characterize the business which it has described. Its aims and methods are known to all, and there is probably nobody so vulnerable, so vain or so cowardly as henceforth to be its victim. It would seem as if the field long so successfully cultivated must have burned barren by this fire of publicity. Enough has been revealed to suggest the possibility of further revelations from others, encouraged by this verdict, and in that case this trial may, perhaps, be followed by counter charges and trials. However that may be, this exploiter of scandals will no longer be treated by anybody with a pretence of respect or deferred to with an atom of fear. The case of Justice Denel is one which clearly and imperatively calls for further court proceedings. The charge made by Mr. Hapgood, as described by the District Attorney, was that he was a vulture living upon money, extorted from these "too cowardly to pay for silence," that he was a blackmailer, inasmuch as the paper he supervised was used to blackmail. Whether or not this charge had been proved was the question for the jury to consider, according to Mr. Jerome. If it had not been proved, Mr. Hapgood was guilty. The jury went out and in seven minutes returned a verdict of "not guilty." Thus the judgment of twelve men is that one of our judges is a blackmailer. The testimony clearly shows that he was regularly engaged in a business—and that a disreputable business—in violation of the law regulating his judicial conduct. It should be evident even to him that he can no longer sit acceptably or decently for the administration of justice. His ermine is spotted. He offers a case for the action of the Appellate Division; if he does not in shame anticipate formal complaint by taking himself from the bench. The secrets of "Town Topics" and "Fads and Fancies" show that there are a great many persons of wealth and social ambition in this community whose vain desire to see their names in print is so great as to render them "easy marks" for the extortionist who deals in flattery or the blackmail who deals in threats. Some of them have been subjected to severe but perhaps wholesome humiliations. Probably for a time at least such publications will find small encouragement here. Is it too sanguine to hope that the relief will be permanent and founded not so much on the feeling that blackmailers are discredited as on a revival of self-respect in society, a distaste for scandals and a conscious independence of it even when this case no longer serves as a stimulus to courage?

"Water gas?" suggested a thin man, as he finished his prune.

"Wrong," answered the fat man; "we'll give it up," replied several.

"Why, he had two tapers!"

Counts Folk Down and Out.

Madison Journal: Leslie's Weekly counts Gov. Joe Folk of Missouri down and out. It declares he is a fallen hero, a reformer who proved unequal to the situation after he got his reforms going. It declares he has not redeemed a reform promise since he became governor; that his head seems to be turned by ambition and that he has his eyes on the senate or the presidency and neglects his duties at home. It asserts he is rapidly receding from the limelight and will soon no longer be talked of.

Admission of Intellectual.

Chicago Chronicle: In New York last week a man went into a stable to attend to a blooded horse with which he had always been on affectionate terms, but the horse kicked and bit him to death before any one could go to his help. This has often happened with horses and the explanation given is that they have gone crazy. That is no doubt the true explanation, but it seems to have escaped observation that it is a concession to the horse's intellectuality. There are those who deny that a horse has any mind, but it has no mind how can he lose it? Even a man can not go crazy unless he has a bright mind. No one ever knew a fool to become insane.

The Moon and Vegetation.

Dundee Advertiser: The widespread belief that the growth of plants is in some mysterious manner related to the phases of the moon has just been put to the test by M. Flammarion, the eminent French astronomer. At dates selected to correspond with the age of the moon he planted a number of common vegetables, such as potatoes, peas, cabbages, etc., and carefully noted the variation in their growth. The results were rather damaging to the theory of the moon's influence, it being quite impossible to connect in any way the development of the plants with the varying phases of our satellite. M. Flammarion, however, is not quite so thorough, and he has decided to continue his experiments over a longer period, and on a more extensive scale. Convinced that the growth of vegetation depended largely on sun spot activity, M. Flammarion many years ago began systematic observations on a number of trees in the vicinity of his residence, and after thirty years he claims to have proved that the annual development of certain trees, particularly the chestnut, varies with the solar disturbances. Of more general interest are his experiments at the Juvigny Observatory, Paris, where, by intercepting the sun's rays with different colored glass he has found that while blue glass keeps vegetation backward, green hastens it in a most remarkable manner. Some plants, indeed, attain under blue tinted the height reached under blue, and by the use of certain colors the color and shape of the leaves can be modified at will.

Sounding the Nasal Obligator.

Exchange: A writer for the Chicago Chronicle says that the northeast winds have created such an epidemic of nose-blowing in that city that he deems it expedient at this time to give some advice regarding the proper way to sound the nasal obligator. Referring to the gentle nose-blowing that is fashionable in London, he says that nobody in Chicago will give a second thought to so obvious an absurdity as the proposition to sound the nasal trumpet gently, and that the thing is a mere monarchical refinement totally at variance with the genius of our institutions and the palladium of our liberties—never to gain a foothold or a nosehold in Chicago. He proceeds to make a comparison between the London way and the Chicago custom that is quite interesting, as follows:

"The London authorities call attention to the importance of performing the nose-blowing operation in what they term a scientific and hygienic manner. First one nostril and then the other, they say, should be blown without undue violence and this latter specification is insisted upon as if gentleness were the prime requisite in the operation. Every Chicagoan knows that this is a mere euphemism and heresy. The true satisfaction and physical relief to be derived from nose-blowing are not to be induced by a modest, deprecatory sort of zephyr such as the London experts speak of, but by a good honest, sonorous blast which may be heard a block away, and in the performance of this function a bandanna handkerchief, perfectly bright red in color, will be found to be most efficacious as an adjunct or corollary. The timid, ladylike whiff may answer in London, where civilization is effete, but it will not for our wide-swept lake regions where humanity is still aggressive and robust and where there is small patience with the effeminate tendencies of the European despotisms."

MINERS AND OPERATORS IN DEADLOCK ON SCALES

John Mitchell Emphatically Declares There Can Be No Agreement Without an Increase.

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 1.—Wednesday brought a deadlock between the coal operators and miners of both the central competitive and southwest districts. John Mitchell, president of the miners, delivered his ultimatum to the joint scale committee of the central district, declaring that there must be an increase in wages or there would be no agreement. J. L. Robbins of Pittsburg, speaking for the operators, declared that the operators stood positively and determinedly against any advance whatever. The operators of the southwest district united with the operators of the central district in caucus and both agreed to stand by the position taken by Mr. Robbins.

The position of Mr. Robbins was sustained at a caucus of the operators and later their representatives presented their demand that the present scale stand to the joint scale committee.

The operators, in their ultimatum, in addition to demanding the present wage scale, agreed to grant the run of mine basis in Illinois, Danville being the basing point, and the price for pick mining 52 cents a ton, this to carry all necessary expense of shot-firing and timbering.

President Mitchell did not mention any percentage of increase. It is generally recognized that his statement is backed by the almost unanimous sentiment of the miners' delegates, and that the minimum increase that would be accepted without a struggle will be 5.55 per cent, which was the amount of the decrease in wages two years ago.

GLIMPSES OF FALLIERES

France's President Elect a Man of Genial Humor.

IS SAID NOT TO HAVE AN ENEMY

Chief Magistrate of French Republic. In a Hall Fellow Well Met With Everybody and Fond of a Good Anecdote—Crack Shot at Rabbits and Hares—Is Against Nepotism.

M. Clement Armand Fallieres, recently elected president of the French republic, is sixty-four years old, says the New York Tribune's Paris correspondent. He was born near Agen, in old Gascony. His grandfather was a blacksmith of extraordinary physical strength, and his father was a peasant and tiller of the soil. Armand Fallieres came to Paris at an early age and after considerable difficulty passed his examination for the bar and returned to Agen, where he became the leading local lawyer. After serving as mayor of Agen he was elected deputy and went to Paris, where soon afterward he was chosen by Jules Ferry to be assistant secretary of the interior. M. Fallieres has since occupied most important ministerial posts, and he succeeded M. Loubet as president of the senate. M. Fallieres is an intimate friend of M. Loubet and has been a frequent companion of the president at the shooting parties at Marly and Rambouillet. M. Loubet being a splendid shot at pheasants, while M. Fallieres is wonderfully adept at killing rabbits and hares.

M. Fallieres has a large, round face. His hair is white, profuse and inclined to curl. He has for thirty years worn a cravat of the same pattern—namely, dark blue with white spots. He invariably carries an umbrella, even during fine weather. He is an early riser, getting up usually before 7 o'clock, and generally goes to bed at 10. He is fond of domestic life and passes the evenings at his residence with his wife and daughter reading or listening to music.

Mme. Fallieres is a pleasant kind hearted lady of sound common sense. She has exceedingly dark hair and eyes. They have two children, young Mme. Anne and a son, Andre, who is a talented lawyer, thirty years of age and who will fill the same post at the Elysee palace, that M. Paul Loubet fills—secretary to his father. Mme. Fallieres does not disdain to accompany her excellent cook to the market and then for M. Fallieres is a generous and discriminating eater, having a preference for heavy, unctuous dishes of southern France, such as cassoulet—a Toulouse recipe for making what to the American palate resembles Boston baked beans cooked with strips of fat duck and bacon. The favorite wine in the Fallieres family is a dark red wine, containing a full share of sunshine, called Loupillon, and is grown by M. Fallieres himself at his country place near Agen, where he was re-elected senator a few days ago by an overwhelming majority. He is an appreciative musician, differing in this respect from M. Loubet, who does not care at all for music, and his favorite composer is Mozart. M. Fallieres seldom goes to the theater, but is well versed in dramatic literature, and it was he who first proposed that the cross of the Legion of Honor should be conferred on Mounet-Sully of the Comedie Francaise. M. Fallieres is a man of genial humor and is fond of a good anecdote.

One of the French papers dwells with pleasure on the democratic origin, modest character and true republican record of M. Fallieres, in whom the other republican writers see a man likely to be a worthy successor to M. Loubet, says the New York Herald's Paris correspondent. In fact, some people go so far as to trace a personal resemblance between the two presidents, particularly in the lower portion of the face, with a big spreading white beard.

In stature and girth there is, of course, a great difference. M. Fallieres is a much bigger man, with an avoirdupois which has already been the butt of the caricaturists. The president elect takes these jests with characteristic good humor, while at the same time sparing no pains to keep down his weight.

For a year past it is told of him that every morning, rain or cold, he starts at 8 o'clock on a two hours' fast walk, from which he returns bathed in perspiration, and then, assisted by his wife—for this simple minded man does not like to have many servants around him—has a vigorous rub down before starting his day's work at half past 10. A man of robust health and appetite, M. Fallieres is very fond of dishes peculiar to Gascony, from which province he has attained presidential honors. In his birthplace and surrounding country M. Fallieres is a hail fellow—well met with everybody and is said not to have an enemy.

The charge of nepotism cannot be made against the president elect. M. Fallieres has three orphaned nephews who live with him, and recently one of them sought to obtain the decoration Palmes Academiques and induced the then minister of the interior to include his name in the list, which was in due course submitted to M. Fallieres for approval. At dinner that evening M. Fallieres spoke to the offending nephew as follows: "So you want the Palmes Academiques, and you made use of my name to get them. I wish you to understand, nephew, that I don't want anybody to say I favor my relatives, and consequently I have crossed out your name from the list."

To Resume Vaudeville: Early in March the roller-skating rink will be put in order for vaudeville again despite any clamor which may arise from the devotees of the sport on wheels. A Chicago agency will provide the attractions.

After A Big Contract: Contractor David Stewart went to Watertown yesterday to get the particulars regarding a contract for a new $20,000 Carnegie library on city bids have been asked. Mr. Stewart recently completed a $51,000 dormitory for the Sacred Heart college in that city. Edgerton, through the generosity of the steel magnate, has a $10,000 appropriation for converting the old Baptist church into a library.

Welcome Baby Girl: A baby girl was welcomed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Eller, 214 North Bluff street, Tuesday night.

Divorce Actions: Two divorce have been commenced in circuit court. One is that of H. W. Bliss against Matilda Bliss and the other, a Beloit action, is that of Henry Kapp against Emma Kapp.

Marriage Licenses: Applications for marriage licenses have been filed by Ole Hanson of Christiana, Dane county, and Nekoline Roynstad of Edgerton; Fred Miller and Pauline Rich- eck, both of Janesville; Julius W. Mobitz and Lizzie Bentz, both of Milton; Mrs. S. M. Smith will arrive from Chicago this evening. Mr. and Mrs. Smith will reside at the W. S. Jeffris home for the present.

Lecture Postponed: On account of the illness of his daughter, Rev. Gebhart, who was to speak at the English Evangelical Lutheran Church to-morrow evening, has postponed his engagement indefinitely.

Card of Thanks
We desire to thank our friends and neighbors for their kindness and the beautiful flowers sent during our recent bereavement.

IS TO MAKE A TEST OF THE STATE LAW

Wisconsin Telephone Company Announces That It Will Test
Its Constitutionality.

The Wisconsin Telephone company states that it will proceed at once, in the courts, to test the constitutionality of the new statute which forbids telephone companies charging higher rates for service in one city than in another city. The complaint in this case was filed in the circuit court here last week. It will contend that the law is unconstitutional because it attempts class legislation by forcing a public service company to show discrimination in its charges to the public for a specific service. President Alonzo Burt of the Wisconsin Telephone company says regarding the suit: "The suit brought against this company to enforce compliance with the new law, in Beloit, is a scheme upon the part of the opposition, at Madison and Janesville, to make this company base its rates for service entirely upon the population of a town or city. We have not obeyed it, because we believe it unconstitutional. We shall simply defend our rights, and our attorneys have been instructed to take the matter into the courts, in order to determine its constitutionality."

GOES TO PRISON FOR OVER TWO YEARS

W. L. Waddell Sent to State Prison
from the Madison Court—Worked Janesville.

W. L. Waddell, the agent for a nursery company in Black River Falls, who sent in fake orders to his firm, was sentenced to two years and six months at hard labor by Judge Donovan of the municipal court at Madison. Waddell is alleged to have sent his firm numerous orders purporting to be from Janesville people which were false. It was also alleged that he collected money in Janesville and Beloit as partial payments for the goods which he failed to account for. He was arrested in Rockford last week by the chief of police of Madison. It is also alleged that he was trying to induce a Beloit girl to marry him, while he had a wife in Rockford. The same thing was also alleged regarding a young woman in Reedsburg.

MORTUARY MENTION

George Crouse.
The remains of the late George Crouse, were brought here this morning at 10:35 o'clock over the St. Paul road and taken to the chapel in Oak Hill where funeral services were conducted at twelve. Rev. H. C. Boissier officiated and the following acted as pall bearers: Henry Tall, F. L. Clemens, Henry Rogers and Orlando Baker. Interment was in Oak Hill.
Mr. Crouse passed away unexpectedly at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Dr. R. H. Lowry in Chicago Monday evening. He was formerly a resident of this city and acted for years as janitor of the Adams school in the second ward. Several years ago, however, he removed to Chicago and since then had made his home there. He was seventy-nine years of age, having been born in Darmstadt, Germany, November 9, 1826. Besides his widow he leaves four children to mourn his loss: Mrs. C. R. Giesm, residing on a farm near Beloit, with whom Mrs. Crouse now lives; George Crouse of Los Angeles, Cal.; Fred Crouse of Rockford, Ill.; and Mrs. Dr. Lowry of Chicago, with whom he resided.

Miss Jennie Witham.
Miss Jennie Witham, aged thirty years, passed away last evening at the home of her mother on South Main street. She had been ill for several days but her condition did not fully warn her demise. The deceased had spent the greater part of her life in the city and leaves to mourn her loss a mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. Lorenzo Witham, two brothers, Robert of Janesville and William of Idaho, and two sisters. No arrangements for the funeral have been settled upon as yet, nothing having been heard from William Witham.

LIFE'S COUNTERFEITS TOPIC THIS EVENING

Rev. F. T. Galpin of Madison, Gave a Powerful Address on
"The Ideal Man."
Last Night.

A large audience gathered in the Baptist church last evening and heard Rev. F. T. Galpin of Madison. He spoke on "The Ideal Man," whom he defined as citizen, scholar and saint. His manner of speaking is conventional with here and there a rise into impassioned utterance. He held his audience in rapt attention. It was a meeting of deep power. Tonight he preaches on "Life's Counterparts." From the interest manifested last evening a capacity audience may be expected before the end of the week. Mr. Galpin gave the boys and girls a captivating talk yesterday afternoon, wherein he drew parallels between an ocean liner and a human life. In both cases there is necessary a destination, a rudder, a pilot, a crew's nest and a captain. This afternoon and Friday he speaks again. Dr. Tippett gave an address full of practical helpfulness at the 3:00 o'clock service. Rev. L. G. Catchpole speaks at the same hour today. The singing last evening was unusually impressive. The audience joined with enthusiasm in stirring songs, old and new. The rendition of "The Old Wayside Cross" by the male quartet was very well received. A large number signed the discipleship cards.

FELL ON WALK; TWO BONES FRACTURED

Mrs. John Wood Sustained Com-
Arm Last Evening.

By a hard fall on a slippery walk last evening, Mrs. John Wood of 350 South Franklin street sustained a serious compound fracture of the right forearm. Both bones were broken close to the hand and the injury is severe. Dr. Fox was called to reduce the fracture. Mrs. Wood is the wife of John Wood, a well known machinist and her many friends will be pained to learn of her misfortune.

HAPPENINGS IN SOCIAL CIRCLES

Eighty Attended W. R. C. Dinner
Tuesday—Linen Shower Last Night for Miss Mae Bunt

Miss Annie McCaffrey entertained a company of young ladies at her home on Chatham street last evening in honor of Miss Mae Bunt, who is to be wedded to Arthur Fatales in the very near future. The entertainment was a linen shower and the prospective bride received a number of useful as well as handsome pieces. A luncheon was served and the festivities were enjoyed until midnight.

Eighty enjoyed the bountiful repast served by W. H. Sargent, Women's Relief Corps No. 21, at the G. A. R. hall Tuesday noon. The entertainment was given in honor of visiting members of the A. D. Hamilton Corps No. 4 of Milton, Past Department President Mrs. Emma Ewing Grinnell of Idaho, and Deputy Treasurer Harriet I. Purcell of Beloit. Three new members were initiated in the afternoon and a musical program which included selections by Miss Gertrude Winbiger and Mrs. Olive Wilkins, readings by Miss Ora Smith and Mrs. Osborne, and remarks by Mesdames Grinnell, Purcell, and Lucilla Barnhart. The festivities closed with the singing of "America."

H. P. Robinson, Commandant of Canton Janesville, Number 9, Patriarchs Militant, is in receipt of a letter from the Commandant of the Rockford Canton, stating that forty-six uniformed chevrons and ladies from that city will attend the Military Ball here this evening. The trip will be made over the electric road and a special car has been chartered. All day yesterday and today the decorating committee were busily engaged in Assembly hall, making the room gay with United States flags, patriotic colors and the symbolical three links in white, red and blue.

Mrs. Richard Valentine and daughter, Miss Anna Valentine, entertained a company of eighty-five ladies at progressive euchre at their home on South Second street Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. Victor P. Richardson won the first prize and the second was awarded Mrs. W. H. Greenman. A very tempting luncheon was served at the conclusion of the playing and the afternoon was thoroughly enjoyed by all the guests.

SHERIFF COCHRANE BROUGHT PAIR BACK

Beloit Man Is Held in Jail upon a Serious Charge—Arrested in Iowa.

Sheriff Cochrane returned yesterday from Ottumwa, Ia., bringing with him W. Ed. Barnard and Miss Amanda Nelson, who he arrested there on serious statutory charges. The couple left Beloit about one month ago and have been living in Ottumwa since. The father of the girl made a complaint to the district attorney for the arrest of Barnard and the return of both resulted. Barnard was employed in the shops in Beloit and is known to have a wife and two children in Freeport. "These he deserted to run away with the Nelson girl, taking her from her own home on Lincoln avenue in Beloit. Before Judge Booth yesterday morning Barnard was charged with adultery and as this is a felony it must be tried before the municipal court and trial was waived and bond fixed at $500. This he could not give and was sent to jail until Feb. 6, when the case will be called. On account of the age of the girl the charge against her was made lighter and her hearing will be before Judge Booth on Feb. 7. In default of $300 bond she was also sent to jail.

OPPORTUNITY RAPS AT GATES OF CITY; WILL PEOPLE HEED?

All Public Spirited Citizens Are Urged to Attend Mass-Meeting at City Hall Tonight.

Every public-spirited citizen, every man who has the interests of Janesville at heart, should make it his duty and his pleasure to attend the mass-meeting at the city hall at 7:30 this evening. The Advancement Association, after six months of careful and painstaking correspondence with manufacturing institutions in all sections of the country has received what it considers a good proposition and it asks for the advice and co-operation of all citizens in taking the next step, if it is determined that any shall be taken. The concern employs seventy-five men at the outset and there are excellent prospects that this number would be increased to over two hundred in a like number of years, should the factory be located in Janesville. Now is the time for a good hard shove towards the realization of a bigger and better city, if, as it is claimed, opportunity is once more vigorously knocking at the outer gates.

BASKETBALL GAME TO BE PLAYED HERE

High School Second Team To Meet
Brodhead Second—Contest To Be Called at Seven Thirty.

While the first teams, boys and girls, of the local high school are fighting at Burlington tomorrow evening the second team will be playing here. The opposing five will be the second from the Brodhead high school, who were defeated by the Janesville boys two weeks ago. The visitors, it is understood, have been putting forth extra efforts to attain team work and speed and hope to win, but the Bower City lads will have the advantage of being on their own floor. The local players will be Strang, Cunningham, Klenke, Richards and Crissey. The game is to be called at half-past seven.

BRODHEAD WOMAN STRICKEN WITH HEMORRHAGE OF BRAIN WHILE VISITING PARENTS

Now Confined in Palmer Hospital
Here—John Koller, Jr.,
Passes Away.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Brodhead, Feb. 1.—Mrs. Fred Klaas, nee Ida Popanz, was suddenly stricken with hemorrhage of the brain while on a visit to her parents, who reside near Albany, Wis., on Saturday.
On Monday morning she was taken by loving hands to the Palmer hospital at Janesville, where she was placed in charge of Dr. Palmer and nurses. Dr. Palmer stated at an early hour to Mrs. Klaas and friends that she had an excellent chance to pull through. At 5:30 o'clock Monday afternoon a telephone message from the hospital to Ray McNitt of this city stated that she was resting comfortably. Her many friends here will be glad to hear of her speedy recovery.

DAVIDSON WILL NOT DESERT THE TRAIL OF PREDECESSOR

Appointment of District Attorney for Rock County Based on Question of Factional Allegiance.

(Special Correspondence.)

Madison, Wis., Feb. 1.—Governor James O. Davidson of Wisconsin has given assurances that he will follow the political trail blazed out by his predecessor in office, Robert M. La Follette, now United States senator. In filling the vacancy in the office of district attorney of Rock county, Governor Davidson appointed J. L. Fisher, for years the working head of the La Follette faction in that stalwart stronghold. Tempting promises of support for Governor Davidson as a candidate for election for a full term are said to have been made to him by stalwart leaders if he would appoint John Cunningham, a close friend of Malcolm G. Jeffris, stalwart candidate for congress and chairman of the stalwart state convention of 1904, when the Spooner-Quarles faction bolted the La Follette convention and ticket.

A telegram was received by the governor from Senator La Follette at Washington, urging the appointment of Fisher, and the decision was awaited as direct evidence of the determination of Davidson to accept stalwart support in his campaign or cling fast to the "halfbreed" faction. Following the announcement of the appointment of Fisher, Governor Davidson frankly declared that he decided the question on the point of factional allegiance, the two leading candidates for the place being both well endorsed and qualified as to fitness for the office. He said he knew that either would make a good district attorney, but he chose to reward the friends who had aided the prevailing faction rather than make any alliances with the men who had done their utmost to bring the administration to defeat. There have been attempts by friends of Speaker J. L. Lenroot and other candidates for the governorship to brand Governor Davidson with the stigma of being ready to sell out to the opponents of Governor La Follette, but in the present instance he has given assurances that such a charge is not well based. Other appointments announced yesterday were: Lawrence B. Meyer, Hudson, member of the state board of health, term to expire in 1913; former State Senator George F. Merrill, Ashland, member of the state board of university regents, term to expire in 1909.

GENERAL CHAFFEE'S OFFICIAL LIFE CLOSED

Jards at an early hour in the morning, encountering a heavy fire from the enemy and suffering severely, but it did not faze him, and carried the summit with a heavy cheer. An eye witness of the struggle said when the fight was the hottest, General Chaffee dashed about at the head of the column with his hat on the back of his head urging on his men—who were willing enough for all that and needed no encouragement—crying to them to "get in and help their country win a victory." The men were right behind him and the victory was won.

MAJ. GEN. HENRY C. CORBIN.

Lead Against Boxers.
At the time of the Boxer troubles General Chaffee led the American forces in China. He made a favorable showing in comparison with the best soldiers of the great armies represented there. Subsequently he was given command in the Philippines, from which command he was detached to become chief of staff.

A model soldier in the field, with a true soldierly way of doing things, General Chaffee was always the idol of his men. It has often been said that one of his favorite commands, when in a hot chase after Indians, used to be: "Follow me, men, and every man that's killed I'll make a corporal."

Wood Succeeds Corbin.
Manila, Feb. 1.—Major General Leonard Wood today succeeded Major General Corbin in command of the military division of the Philippines. Major-General Corbin leaves tomorrow for Hong Kong, sailing thence for the United States to take command of the northern division of the army at St. Louis.

The President this afternoon announced the appointment of Brigadier General A. W. Greeley, chief signal officer, to be major general to succeed General Bates, and Col. J. Allen to be brigadier general and chief signal officer.

Easy Way to Remove Warts.

Warts may be entirely removed by washing the hands, two or three times a day, with the water in which potatoes have been boiled; or by bathing the wart several times with potato water.

Goes Into Detail.

A citizen of Gluckstadt, Germany, has returned a census paper in which he describes his trade as that of a basket-maker, while the question regarding his "position" is answered thus: "We do our work sitting."

TRAFFIC IN IMMIGRANTS

Marcus Braun Tells Why They Are Told to Stay Aliens.

HOW EUROPE IS ENRICHED BY THEM

Inspector of Immigrants Says $500,000,000 Earned in the United States
Was Sent in One Year to Austria-Hungary—Asserts America Is Regarded as Merely a Foreign Colony.

The report of Immigrant Inspector Marcus Braun, recently received by the house, is a stricture upon the government of Italy and Hungary, says a Washington dispatch to the New York World. "Hungarians and Italians," he says, "are encouraged to refrain from becoming American citizens and urged to adhere to the principles of their home governments. Hungarians are advised to establish their own schools, churches, etc., to avoid the terrible danger of becoming naturalized in America."

Mr. Braun declares that while some European governments have laws ostensibly intended to restrict immigration they actually encourage it by keeping alive "the patriotic spirit for the fatherland in the minds of their colonies" by representing that unless they adhere to the principles of home patriotism their governments will leave them without protection in "barbaric America." This is especially true, Mr. Braun says, in Italy and Hungary. He asserts that these countries regard the United States in the attitude of adjuncts or colonies of their own, and by their instructions and teachings to immigrants, benefit accrues to the home government to the detriment of the United States.

Speaking of emigration from Turkey, Asia Minor and Syria, Mr. Braun says the Armenians have invented a scheme whereby they can stay in Turkey and at the same time can defy Turkish laws. This consists of a large number of Armenians emigrating to the United States, and as soon as they have earned sufficient money for their need they return supplied with American citizenship papers and continually conspire against the Turkish government under the protection of American citizenship.

The same is true in Syria and Palestine, he says, and he quotes the governor of Mount Lebanon as saying, "If this constant travel from Syria to and from the United States does not cease soon the United States had better annex the province of Lebanon, as at present there are more American citizens there than Turkish subjects."

In Jerusalem alone Mr. Braun found more than 1,000 "American citizens," and he declares that 99 per cent of them speak not a word of English, and most of them do not know the street of the city in which they claimed to have resided while in the United States. Mr. Braun declares upon the authority of bankers and steamship agents that the amount annually received in Italy from Italians in the United States averages $1 a day for every Italian in the United States.

It is openly stated, he says, in the Export Review, a semi-official organ of the Austrian government, that three-fourths of the immigrants leaving that country for the United States come under contract, and that paper adds, "God forbid that the American government should read this!"

Both Austrian and Hungarian governments keep watch over their people in America, and every effort is directed toward two objective points—namely, "to send us all the emigrants they possibly can for a temporary sojourn here to earn money with which to enrich the land of their nativity upon their return and, secondly, to prevent such emigrants from becoming American citizens." He cites the fact that $50,000,000 was sent last year from the United States to Austria-Hungary alone from these immigrants.

Violations of the immigrant law are not confined to Europe, but are flagrant in America. Bankers, publishers of newspapers, in foreign languages, foreign clergymen and others doing business here are ardent missionaries, inducing immigrants to come to the United States for purposes of exploitation and are equally interested in the return traffic. Among foreign priests it has become a favorite expression to speak of "our colonies in America."

Concerning the Russian Jew, however, Mr. Braun says, "Once he becomes a resident of this country he stays, and his children become among the most patriotic of our citizenship."

Based on the results of his investigation, Mr. Braun recommends "that the United States maintain abroad a secret surveillance of undesirable immigration, that a statute be enacted requiring aliens to produce at landing a certificate of origin from the nearest United States consul to be issued only in the event of satisfactory information being furnished the consul regarding the applicant by the secret service officials, that a bond of not less than $2,500 be required from all persons in the United States engaged in the sale of steamship tickets, forwarding money, contracting for labor; that if any resident of the United States to travel abroad to entice immigration or to advise against naturalization and that the alien contract labor law be amended so that priests, ministers, clergymen and lecturers shall be eliminated from the exempt class unless they are bona fide visitors."

Home Health Club

By DAVID H. REEDER, Ph.D., M.D.
La Porte, Ind.

I think I will comply with the requests which I have been receiving, and tell you how to make extracts, infusions, etc., because I have told you of so many formulas in which a knowledge of these things is essential. I will first tell you how to make essences.

A solution of an essential or aromatic oil in pure alcohol is called an essence, or a spirit of that subject. Sassafras, dill, fennel, wintergreen, rosemary, peppermint, and many other agents may be attained in the form of essence. In colloidal these diffusive essences may be given to great advantage—a few drops on sugar or in hot water. One ounce of oil in nine ounces of alcohol is about the proportion which will constitute the average essence. In making pills it is customary to add to the mass some essence of peppermint to disguise the taste and prevent griping. You will remember that I told you some time ago that the essence of peppermint was one of the best agents to be had for expelling flatulency, or wind, from the bowels; and because of its beneficial action it is a most practical addition when compounding pills. You should be careful not to compound an essence with a tincture. In making the essence of wintergreen, only about one-half the amount of alcohol is used as in making other essences.

Fluid and Solid Extracts.
Extracts are a very convenient method of preparing remedial agents. Fluid extracts are made by macerating the crude drugs in water and alcohol, containing a small quantity of glycerin; and then evaporating to a degree that will cause one pound of the fluid extract to represent one pound of the crude drug in medicinal strength. Nearly all vegetable remedies may be obtained in the fluid extract form, and when they are manufactured by first-class drug firms they may be depended upon. The majority of fluid extracts become cloudy and a sediment will be found in the bottom of the bottle when water has been added. The solid extract of remedies is obtained by long steeping the crude drugs in hot water or alcohol or cold water, and then evaporating in porcelain dishes until only a solid remains. The principal use of solid extracts is in making pills.

Infusions.
One of the simplest and most effective methods of administering the herb remedies consists in extracting their virtues by warm or hot water. These are called infusions; or hot water extracts. Coarsely ground articles are best for infusions on account of the fact that they may be readily strained; although the pulverized drugs may be used if desired. In fact, in the preparation of some infusions the remedial qualities are much more readily extracted if the drug is thoroughly pulverized. This is especially true of ginger. As a rule one ounce of the drug is the proper amount to be used for making an infusion with one pint of boiling water; and after preparing the infusion is better if allowed to steep for 20 minutes; or even longer.

Bitter herbs do not require so large a quantity to the pint, and in making an infusion of capsicum only a few grains are required. One-half drachm, which is equivalent to about half a teaspoonful, would be ample for a pint of boiling water, when preparing an infusion of capsicum, or red pepper. The aromatic drugs, and those containing tannin, or volatile oils, are injured by pouring boiling water upon them; they should therefore be treated with very warm water instead, and be allowed to steep for half an hour or longer. Among the more prominent herbs that would come under this heading, may be mentioned bayberry, catnip, wild cherry, peach leaves, black cohosh, witch hazel, elecampane, etc.

Tinctures.
There are two forms or methods of preparing tinctures. The most commonly used is that which is extracted by the alcoholic method. When this kind is used internally, it should be first put in hot water in order to expel the alcohol which was necessary to extract the medicinal principle. For many purposes tinctures are very convenient, especially for outward applications. They are prepared by soaking six ounces of the ground drugs in a pint each of water and alcohol for ten days, and then filtering. Glycerin tinctures without alcohol may be prepared by macerating the drugs in a part of glycerin and four parts of water. The glycerin tinctures are not so effective for external use as are the alcoholic tinctures.

CLUB NOTES.

"Pass It On." It is proven by many letters, which have come to me, giving remedies for frost-bite, or chilblains, that there are many who have suffered and many who have been cured, and still further, that the Home Health Club is, after a number of years' steady and persistent work, beginning to arouse a desire in its followers to share in this great work of helping one another and practicing our motto of "Pass It On." Whenever you know of something that has helped you, pass it on. You will set in motion an influence for good which may reach into eternity. No human being can rightly predict where this good work will lead to, nor its end, but our hopes and prayers are that it may never cease, but continue to bind us more closely together for the good of all.

If C. J. Swanson and "Nebraska" will write again, giving their name and address in full, I will be glad to answer their letters.

Illinois.—Dr. David H. Reeder, La Porte, Ind.—Dear Sir: About two months ago I wrote to you about my boy holding his breath when he cries, and you advised me to dash cold water on his abdomen. I thank you very much for your advice, for it gives instant relief as soon as the water strikes him, and he is not as bad about holding his breath. Respectfully, with best wishes, from J. S.

This simple method has been used at my suggestion in many cases of children holding the breath when angry, and I have never known it to fail. Continue the treatment until the cure is complete.

Iowa.—Dr. David H. Reeder, La Porte, Ind.—Dear Doctor: Having read many of your Club Notes in this paper, I wish to consult with you in regard to my daughter's health. She is greatly annoyed by an itching of the scalp. Several times within two years I have consulted our family physician. He says he can see nothing to prescribe for, and sometimes says he thinks she will outgrow it, and again gives her some simple remedy, which avails nothing. This fall she is worse than ever and is almost constantly scratching her head. She is 15 years old, weighs 105 pounds, and is a fine, healthy-looking girl.

Since she had Dutch measles seven years ago, she has been troubled with what we call salt rheum on the palms of her hands and soles of her feet—much worse on the feet. The whole affected part would swell, turn red, and be covered with little watery pimples which itch. In about three days the swelling would go down, the color disappear and the skin peel off. In a few weeks the whole process would repeat itself. Our physician treated that trouble and nearly cured it. Occasionally it crops out a very little, but does not itch or annoy her.

We are farmers and enjoy good health. We seldom call a physician or take medicine. Any suggestions you may make, will be thankfully received. Respectfully—Mrs. C.

In your daughter's case I would advise both external and internal treatment. The latter would be designed to remove from the system those poisonous elements which cause the eruption, itching, etc., to appear, while the external treatment would remove all the external trace of it. The former should consist of the Schuessler tissue elements in tablet form, properly selected, while the latter should consist of the herb remedy in liquid form which I have often used myself and recommended to others, with great success in all skin diseases. I presume you can readily refer to the back numbers of your paper and secure the formula. You should also have her use the method of home treatment for salt rheum so fully described in the Club books.

Nebraska.—David H. Reeder, La Porte, Ind.—Dear Doctor: We are subscribers of this paper, and would like to know what is the trouble with our baby. He is six weeks old. When he was about two weeks old he began passing curds of undigested milk from his bowels and would scream, strain and draw up his feet with every passage. We spoke to a doctor about it, and he advised giving him a few doses of castor oil, which we did, and it helped him for the time being, but when we did not give it he became constipated, and has hardly had a passage since without the use of the syringe or a dose of castor oil. We went to the doctor again, and he gave some medicine and some more castor oil, but I cannot see that it has helped him.

His passages have been quite green, containing mucous and curdled milk every time. Sometimes after nursing he will seem in great pain and belch up wind and sometimes milk. He also passes off a great deal of wind from his bowels. As the baby is getting the breast, I have tried, to eat nothing which I thought would disagree with him and with the exception of being slightly constipated, am in good health—have plenty of milk for him.

Would be glad to hear from you as soon as possible, if you can tell us anything to do for him, as I do not like to give so much physic to such a little child, and it seems to do him no good if I take anything. Respectfully,—Mrs. C. H.

In regard to the condition of your baby, the constipation is due to the character of the food, and I am inclined to think that the passing of undigested curds and some of the colic is due to overeating and feeding at improper intervals. For the constipation, I would suggest that you procure and use for yourself the Compound Gentian syrup. It would be necessary for you to begin its use in a very light way, because it is a glandular remedy, and affects the glands within a very short time. The mammary glands in your system are at the present time the most active, and therefore the baby would receive the benefit of the herb remedies very quickly. You would also receive a portion of it yourself, but as would have the first effect.

I think that if you use the gentian syrup it will not be necessary for you to give the baby physic, but you should continue the enema until the effect of the herbs begins to occur. Temporarily, you should give him a little catnip or peppermint tea for the colic.

All readers of this paper are at liberty to inquire for any information pertaining to the subject of health. Address all communications to the Home Health Club, or Dr. David H. Reeder, La Porte, Ind., with name and address in full, and at least four cents in postage.

Sentence Sermon.
Sad will be the day for any man when he becomes absolutely contented with the life he is living, and with the thoughts he is thinking, and the deeds he is doing—when there is no forever beating at the doors of his soul some great desire to do something larger, which he knows he was meant and made to do because he is a child of God.—Phillips Brooks.
